

DR. GEOFFREY E. LEBER

WHY DID YOU BECOME A PLASTIC SURGEON

As a child, I respected my surgeon father and knew that's what I wanted to be.

After exposure to many surgical specialties, I chose plastic surgery because of the variety of reconstructive and aesthetic procedures and the ability to operate on all areas of the body

COMBINATION PROCEDURES

Body contouring, breast augmentation, mastopexy, tummy tuck, liposuction, body lift. Taken individually, these are common procedures for any plastic surgeon. Yet done in combination, they can dramatically improve a patient's appearance and state of mind. Dr. Leber is very experienced in combination procedures, pairing two or more individual surgeries to present a single, finished result. The procedures he learned while performing an advanced aesthetic fellowship in Beverly Hills allow Dr. Leber to visualize the patient from a three-dimensional, "360-degree field of view." This helps PERFECT THE CONTOURS from every angle. Each operation within the combination procedure reveals his expertise and attention to detail. BREAST LIFTS employ the dermal wing mastopexy, or "internal bra." This uses otherwise discarded tissues to suspend the breast in a higher position, lending fullness and preventing it from "bottoming out." His TUMMY TUCKS tighten the abdominal wall, using rows of sutures to create a "six pack" appearance, and a natural looking belly button, all without producing an overly tightened look. He then performs LIPOSUCTION on the back, flanks, hips and thighs to "create a piece of art with natural curves." The result is a visual image that is pleasing to the doctor and patient alike.

Details. If the practice of Geoffrey Evans Leber, MD, FACS, can be summarized in a single concept, it would be attention to details. From the extensive archives of before-and-after photographs to the perfect views within and surrounding the office, the practice offers detailed proof that establishes the expectation of natural beauty.

Dr. Leber returned to his home state of Arizona in 2001 after spending 16 years pursuing extensive education and surgical training, and earning a fellowship in advanced aesthetic plastic surgery with Dr. Richard Ellenbogen (from television's "Dr. 90210"). His intention has always been to provide individualized care and "give patients a vision of what's possible." That vision becomes real in the before-and-after photos of past patients on his Web site and in his office, revealing an emphasis on the natural results he seeks. An admitted perfectionist, his objective is to deliver an outstanding result that exceeds patients' expectations and "makes them feel sexier and more youthful again." "The key to my success is an appreciation for detail, which helps produce results patients are hoping to achieve."

Dr. Leber's office is set on a 10-acre medical campus with state-certified operating rooms and nursing-staffed overnight facilities in Paradise Valley. His practice also boasts a full-service laser center where patients can receive the latest nonsurgical procedures. "As part of our nonsurgical services, we are excited to offer the new triniti™ Skin Series. The program combines FotoFacial RF® for color correction, Refirme™ for skin tightening and Matrix IR™ for wrinkles and texture, to help patients achieve total facial renewal, nonsurgically," says Dr. Leber. "All three treatments can be performed in the same visit, with little or no discomfort and no downtime." Dr. Leber is also proud to be the first plastic surgeon in Arizona to offer the LipoLite™ procedure, the latest in laser assisted liposuction and skin tightening available in his office. "LipoLite uses a small laser fiber to break up and liquefy areas of fat in the face, neck and body with minimal discomfort, downtime and risk. LipoLite can be performed under local anesthesia as a stand alone, minimally invasive outpatient procedure, or in conjunction with traditional liposuction to achieve more dramatic body-sculpting results."
